Introduction Video Transcript

What is a Leadership skill, as social beings, people can apply leadership styles in their daily life toward the people whom they are interacting with?

Are people born a leader, or do they gain leadership skills in their professional life? Is leadership learned?

Do you know that leadership skills help you to overcome the challenges in your family life, career path, and social life?

There are varieties of values that can be promoted for the capable leader candidates and for those who also can borrow them. Well-known speakers generally emphasize common values and qualities to possess, in their life. If I mention some of them, I can summarize them like:

- Become a learning leader.
- Be honest in difficult situations.
- Assess negative feedback objectively.
- Be brave enough to admit your mistakes.
- Don't let your successes blind you from your own shortcomings.
- Look outside your environment to find a better and outstanding solution.
- Thinking outside of the box is more effective if you make the box bigger.
- Give people the freedom to invent and explore.
- Give people the space they need to accept difficult decisions.
- Share your valid concerns with your team.
- Add metaphors into a story that already exists in the mind of your audience.
- You should care about the changes you are seeking to implement.
- Turn abstract ideas into concrete examples.
- Make goals clear and unambiguous.
- Set short-term tracking goals.

- Change the environment to promote the required change.
- Use roadblocks as change agents.
- Complete your assignment timely.
- Take pride in being a 'pioneer'
- Don't hesitate at the first signs of trouble.
- Don't let the fear of failure prevent you from trying.
- Don't assume that people share your perspectives.
- Find common values to build better relationships.
- Bring people who usually work separately together to focus on one specific problem/challenge.
- Encourage people to share their stories in order to add true depth to relationships.

Leaders demonstrate the values they wish to see in their organization. Become an old person with a youthful passion for life.

Now we will try to answer the four questions that will help you understand what leadership is, and how to use and develop it.

Interactive task 1

But before that – please watch the video then join the interactive tasks below.

Answer and discuss questions with groups and subgroups related to the video you watched.

1. How could you define the changes in the young man's behaviour or sense?

(Here the author will write 10 sentences, 7 relevant 3 irrelevant) (The right answers are in blue, and the wrongs are in red)

- 1) The young man continued his apathetic behaviour.
- 2) The young man may think that authority must be respected, and their instruction must be followed.
- 3) The young man believes that integrity is not doing the right things.

- 4) The young man regards integrity as doing the right thing.
- 5) The young man already thinks that being reliable can overcome troubles in teamwork.
- 6) The young man admires the life example set by another influential team member.
- 7) The changes that happened in the young man's behaviour are not an incident; rather, it is a result of the long-term leadership skills of his coworker/s.
- 8) Young man eager to work with the people who show sympathy and patience
- 9) Working with a team that shows empathy and patience helped him to gain integration.
- 10) Leadership is not a one-day activity. Therefore, sustainable leadership influenced the young man.
- 2. In what circumstances would there be no impact on a young man's behaviour?

(The right answers are in blue, and the wrongs are in red)

- 1) If the young person's team member/leader did not see potential in the young man.
- 2) If the coworker dictates the things to do.
- 3) If the young person had been treated hastily and intolerantly.
- 4) If the young man adheres to autocratic rule.
- 5) If the flaws or inadequacies were expressed harshly to the young man's face, it would still have a positive effect.

(Write 5 sentences, 3 relevant 2 irrelevant)

3. Reflect on your own thoughts on the behaviours you observed from the men who act as a leader. Choose the best ten adjectives to describe the situation.

Answers are shown in bold and red aware, responsible, objective, focused, passionate, inclusive, collaborative, observant, influential, adaptable, appreciative, approachable, challenger, considerate, direct, empathetic, empowering

4. In case you were in the position of the man how would you behave?

(4 sentences, 2 relevant 2 irrelevant)

(The right answers are in blue, and the wrongs are in red).

1) I would welcome the elder team member's approach toward me.

- 2) I would also try to pay back.
- 3) There is no valuable thing to pay attention.
- 4) Everyone must do things accordingly, no need to show an example.

Lecture Video transcript:

Leadership skills can be considered one of the most important life skills.

It has a lot of definitions. Literally, it can be defined as 'Leadership is the ability to influence others with vision and behaviors in a social and professional sense and motivate stakeholders, and teams, etc. to achieve desired goals and the path to follow for the general benefits.

In other words, leadership is the ability of an individual, group, or organization to "lead", influence, or guide other individuals, teams, or entire organizations.

A leader is a person who benefits the environment in which he is located, makes fundamental changes in the ongoing tradition, and bears responsibility for managing the environment with decisions and practices based on intuition, intelligence, and knowledge. A leader is a person who influences his environment, depending on his ability to use the power he has. He knows how to stand behind the difficult decisions he makes and the consequences when necessary.

The leader knows that a person can be knowledgeable with the information he receives from others, but only smart with his own mind. Therefore, he consults with his environment, but always makes the final decision himself, taking full responsibility.

As a basic approach, it has a structure that influences and drags the individuals around it with its oratory power, knowledge, and vision. He listens to people and makes special efforts to understand them. It provides positive change and continuous learning environments that will allow everyone around them to develop their best side. Thanks to the strong social values he has, the "charisma" he creates around him, the exemplary personality he has, and his consistent behaviors lead him to be an effective role model for other people.

The Difference Between Leadership and Management

The main difference between the two is that leaders have people follow them, while managers have people who simply work for them.

Leadership is about motivating people to comprehend and believe in the vision you set for the company and to work with you on achieving your goals. While management is more about administering the work and ensuring the day-to-day activities are getting done as they should.

In short, leadership is about inspiring, and management is about planning.

Leadership styles

There are a lot of classifications in leadership skills. We will choose the most relevant ones in this section. Their meaning, difference, advantages, and disadvantages will be addressed.

1. Authoritarian Leadership

Authoritarian leadership styles allow a leader to impose expectations and define outcomes. A one-person show can turn out to be successful in situations when a leader is the most knowledgeable in the team. Although this is an efficient strategy in time-constrained periods, creativity will be sacrificed since input from the team is limited. The authoritarian leadership style is also used when team members need clear guidelines.

Advantages: Time spent on making crucial decisions can be reduced. The chain of command can be clearly emphasized. Mistakes in the implementation of plans can be reduced. Using an authoritarian leadership style creates consistent results.

Disadvantages: A very strict leadership style can sometimes lead to employee rebellion. It kills employee creativity and innovation. It reduces group synergy & collaboration. Group input is reduced dramatically.

2. Participative Leadership

Participative leadership styles are rooted in democratic theory. The essence is to involve team members in the decision-making process. Team members thus feel included, engaged, and motivated to contribute. The leader will normally have the last word in the decision-making process. However, if there are disagreements within a group, it can be a time-consuming process to reach a consensus.

Advantages: It increases employee motivation and job satisfaction. It encourages use of employee creativity. A participative leadership style helps in the creation of a strong team. High level of productivity can be achieved.

Disadvantages: Decision-making processes become time-consuming. Leaders have a high probability of being apologetic to employees. Communication failures can sometimes happen. Security issues can arise because of transparency in information sharing. Poor decisions can be made if the employees are unskilled.

3. Delegative leadership

Also known as "laissez-faire leadership", a delegative leadership style focuses on delegating initiative to team members. This can be a successful strategy if team members are competent, take responsibility and prefer engaging in individual work. However, disagreements among the members may split and divide a group, leading to poor motivation and low morale.

Advantages: Experienced employees can take advantage of their competence and experience. Innovation & creativity is highly valued. Delegative leadership creates a positive work environment.

Disadvantages: Command responsibility is not properly defined. Delegative leadership creates difficulty in adapting to change.

4. Transactional leadership

Transactional leadership styles use "transactions" between a leader and his or her followers - rewards, punishments, and other exchanges - to get the job done. The leader sets clear goals, and team members know how they'll be rewarded for their compliance. This "give and take" leadership style is more concerned with following established routines and procedures in an efficient manner, than with making any transformational changes to an organization.

Advantages: Leaders create specific, measurable, and time-bound goals that are achievable for employees. Employee motivation and productivity is increased. Transactional leadership eliminates or minimizes confusion in the chain of command. It creates a system that is easy to implement for leaders and easy to follow by employees. Employees can choose reward systems.

Disadvantages: Innovation & creativity is minimized. Empathy is not valued. Transactional leadership creates more followers than leaders among employees.

5. Transformational Leadership

In transformational leadership styles, the leader inspires his or her followers with a vision and then encourages and empowers them to achieve it. The leader also serves as a role model for the vision.

Advantages: It leads to a lower employee turnover rate. Transformational leadership places high value on corporate vision. High morale of employees is often experienced. It uses motivation and inspiration to gain the support of employees. It is not a coercive approach to leadership. It places high value on relationships.

Disadvantages: Leaders can deceive employees. Consistent motivation and constant feedback may be required. Tasks can't be pushed through without the agreement of employees. Transformational leadership can sometimes lead to the deviation of protocols and regulations

Scoring Interpretation

This self-assessment questionnaire is designed to measure your authentic leadership by assessing four components of the process: self-awareness, internalized moral perspective, balanced processing, and relational transparency. By comparing your scores on each of these components, you can determine which are your stronger and which are your weaker components in each category. You can interpret your authentic leadership scores using the following guideline: high = 16–20 and low = 15 and below. Scores in the upper range indicate stronger authentic leadership, whereas scores in the lower range indicate weaker authentic leadership.
